MHA805- FINANCIAL REPORTING & ANALYSIS

1. Preamble

Course Title	Financial Reporting & Analysis
Course Code	MHA805
Credits	04
Number of Hours per Group	60 class hours

2. Course Description: Accounting in business occurs even before a hospitality facility ever opens. This is so because businesspersons estimate their costs before they decide to build their facilities and often seek loans from banks to help them. Those banks will assuredly want to know about the proposed business's estimated financial performance before they decide to lend it money. Accurate accounting is important to many other individuals in the hospitality industry. The owners of a restaurant or hotel will certainly want to monitor their business's financial condition. These owners may be one or more individuals, partnerships, or small or very large corporations, but they all care about the performance of their investments. Investors in the hospitality industry generally want to put their money in businesses that will conserve or increase their wealth. To monitor whether or not their investments are good ones, investors will always seek out and rely upon accurate financial information. Financial reporting and analysis introduces the language of business that is used as a management tool to communicate crucial information to stakeholders. There is a need to understand the financial statements especially the economic substance subsumed in them in terms of financial condition and the efficacy of operations of a business. Financial reporting is mandatory activities of companies and their reporting practices have implications for the overall governance of the firm. The course introduces certain tools that can be used to decipher the critical information present in the financial statements.
